

Reviving Indigenous Kinship Experience

Healing colonial trauma to harvest Indigenous love

This experience is designed to provide insights and awareness for participants to become successful in their life through self-responsibility and the application of practical tools to overcome struggles and stress caused by colonialism and colonial systems. There is also a focus on applying these tools in the area of parenting, relationships and family development. This experience is also designed to intervene, support, and encourage healthy parenting for healthy families, which leads to healthy communities within our Nations.
